ALL SORTS.

Thatcher's Minstrels will not "take in" Carson in any sense of the word.

Bill Chamberlain, of the Riverside Hotel, Reno, was in Carson yesterday.

Four or five men with a wagon load of provisions left Candelaria yesterday for Breyfogle.

Dr. Lee and Senator Williams returned last evening from their trip to Inyo County, Cal.

Dell Williams the Genoa Courier man, was in town yesterday accompanied by his wife.

J. W. Howell, special for the Mutual Life, and a mighty frisky old fellow, is at the Arlington.

The first official Australian ballot ever printed in Carson, was struck off at the APPEAL job office yesterday.

Tracy Chedic has lately been converted to the belief in judicious advertising. He has received another carload of hams from Chicago.

Miss Starling's roll of honor: Charlie Brulia, Raymond Collins, Sadie Wylie, Sammie Follett, Cora Trevelia, Robert Baker, Flora Frechette.

The Holmes mine, at Candelaria, which on several occasions was supposed to have been worked out, is said to be looking better than it has been for some time.

Joe Platt's Clothing store was full all day yesterday of children who came to get one of the school bags he is giving away. He is almost giving away his new stock of Summer goods, also.

It is said that the men already at the Breyfogle mines take enough gold from their placer claims to enable them to pay wages to new arrivals to work in their quartz claims.

Chateau & Golden the leading jewellers of Nevada have now on exhibition the largest line of watches, diamonds and precious stones, jewelry, clocks, solid silver and plated ware eye-glasses optical goods etc, ever seen in the State. Before buying a clock call and examine our beautiful line of Bronze Marble and Oxyx Mantel clocks, at prices that defy competition. Watches and jewelry carefully repaired, all work warranted. a29tf

COAST NEWS.

A fire which started in the California bakery at Napa, Monday, spread to three or four adjoining buildings. Henry Dobeletian a laborer, was suffocated to death.

A full report of the lynching of Hunt at Walla Walla on Friday night by soldiers of the United States Army has been received by the Department Commander at Fort Walla Walla, and has been forwarded to General Ruger at San Francisco. Major Ward will furnish a detailed statement of the facts. Colonel Sumner, Inspector-General of the Department, is now at Walla Walla investigating the affair.

Severe storms are reported to have occurred recently in northern ports, especially at Metlakatla, Fort Simpson, and Charlotte Islands. Small boats were lifted off the beach, carried inland for some distance and broken up. At Metlakatla five houses were totally destroyed by the wind. Several houses were demolished on Queen Charlotte Islands and the Lundberg fishing station was totally wrecked.

Runaway of a Harrow.

A few days ago a three-horse team belonging to John McCue and driven by an Indian, ran away while left by the driver. The team ran in to a barbed wire fence with full force. The center horse hung back, escaping injury. The other two were terribly cut about their necks, breasts and legs, the gashes in places extending to the bone. At best the horses will not be fit for use this summer. It was an unfortunate affair for Mr. McCue. —Genoa Courier.

NUDE ART.

Our 'Frisco Correspondent Writes of the Two Classes.

Nude art is divided into two classes in San Francisco. Here is something about the first:

Recently I sat for about ten minutes in a Market Street Art gallery watching a wonderful picture, and the people who passed in front of it. The picture represented a naked nymph lying by a pool of water, her rich golden hair rippling down her back, which was turned to the spectators. It was a masterly piece of work and well worth close inspection, daring in color and perfect in composition. There came waddling by first a fat old lady, who passed the picture with a virtuous sniff and a tip-tilted nose expressive of disgust. A young woman leaning on her husband's arm followed. She saw the nymph from afar, and gazed in the other direction as she walked with an ill-assumed air of unconcern. Her husband stole one quick look at the lazy beauty on the canvas, and then sheepishly glanced around to see if he was detected. Next approached two chatting school girls out for a half holiday. Now, thought I, for blushes and a giggle. Nothing of the sort: They stopped before it, "Oh! isn't that beautiful!"

said one. For a moment they stood with admiring eyes and slowly passed along with unconsciousness of manner not often seen. It was the height of good breeding. Then came another man and woman arm in arm. They paused to view the forest sprite, and began discussing her with the interest of intelligent amateurs. I overheard something about "flesh tints" and the "foreshortening of the left leg." A thin visaged lady remarked that "such things should not be allowed."

THE OTHER CLASS.

Two toughs were discussing within my hearing the other evening, the decline of the noble art of self defense.

"Why" said one of them, "time was, when dey wouldn't have any smokin' in de ring, 'cause it was bad for de sight, see? Now dey let all de blookes what see a mill smoke all dey want to, and de more dey smokes de better dey likes it 'cause de fighters cant see each odder a little bit, see?"

"Yep," grunted the other tough, "yer never see eny gougins er spikins now, ner enything er that sort, dey're too — gentlemenly."

She Was Heroic in Her Way.

Recently, when Joe Grismer was playing Called Back, at the Alcazar theatre, in the early part of the evening, an old lady took up her seat in the balcony and concentrated her attention upon the play. When Antony received his coupe de grace at the hands of Macari the lady became very excited and fainted. She was taken down stairs by the ushers and on her recovery it was suggested that she leave the theatre. This however she declined to do, being anxious to witness as she put it, "the beautiful play," she accordingly returned to the seat, apparently well. The vision scene in act two proved to be too much for her, and again she fainted. Once more restoratives were applied, and she declared her attention of staying to the end. Nothing occurred in act three to arouse her sympathies, but the Siberian scene act 4 when the Doctors shuffle off this mortal coil, again upset her nerves and again she fainted. By this time the management had had enough of the thing, and the old lady was sent home in a gurney at the manager's expense.

Who Wants to Fight?

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25, 1891. ED. APPEAL.—I have received no answer to the challenge I sent you a few weeks ago. Please state that I am still open to fight any 122 pound man in the Northwest, give or take 5 pounds, and that if those blowhards who are looking for reputation through the newspapers mean business, I am ready to meet any of them before any athletic club offering a reasonable purse. Organization.

Miss Mamie Sweeney, Grand President of the Y. L. I. of the Pacific Coast, organized Y. L. I. No. 30, on Monday evening at the hall of the Y. M. I., in this city.

The following officers were installed: President, Mrs. Julia Cowan; First Vice-President, Miss Kate Epstein; Second Vice-President, Miss Mary Roberts; Marshal, Mrs. Lizzie Taylor; Recording Secretary, Miss Nellie Sweeney; Financial Secretary, Miss Maude Stern; Treasurer, Miss Nellie Jaqua; Trustees, Misses Lizzie Savage, Kate Moriarity, Annie McLaughlin, Minnie O'Hare and Mrs. T. Hurley.

A reception was given at Odd Fellows' Hall last evening in honor of Miss Mamie Sweeney and Miss Annie Kelly, and a fine repast was spread for the invited guests.

Dancing and jollity were indulged in up to a late hour.

Drowned in a Washtub.

A distressing accident, resulting in the death of Winfred, the 18-month-old son of C. J. and Margaret Crowley, occurred at Suto yesterday afternoon. The particulars as related by Dr. Harris, who was summoned by telephone when too late, are about as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Crowley stepped into a neighbor's house for a few minutes, leaving a group of little children playing about their premises. On returning they were greatly alarmed at the absence of their little one, and a search resulted in finding the little fellow head downward in a partially filled washtub at the back of the house. Everything possible was done to resuscitate the child, but without avail. The parents are well-nigh crazy. —Enterprise.

Cires.

Cemetery Water.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Cemetery Water Works, April 13, 1891, it was Resolved, that all persons wishing water for irrigation, the present season will be required to pay for the same on or before May 7, 1891, for the season of five months from May 7, to October 7. The Superintendent will not water any lot except in compliance with this resolution. ap23td
